

Abstract

A technique is disclosed of forming an irregular pattern, such as a camouflage pattern on a user interface. The camouflage pattern is formed in a number of different colors, each color 5 being associated with a specified laser power. Each laser power produces a different amount of color change to a garment. In this way, a camouflage pattern can be formed on the garment.